

Punchdrunk are looking for Live Experience Practitioners for a forthcoming R&D period

We are looking for practitioners with to take part in a forthcoming R&D period for a new digital theatre project.

These practitioners will collaborate with Punchdrunk's creative team to create and perform in real world audience-interactive experiences and site-specific audio pieces. We are looking for practitioners who are either writer-performers or deviser-performers. We are particularly interested in meeting early-career practitioners.

We are interested in meeting those with experience of immersive, interactive, or digital theatre projects, alongside those from other parts of the theatre industry who are interested in exploring these areas, perhaps for the first time.

We are looking for practitioners who have the skills to work on one of these two strands of work:

Real world, interactive experiences

Practitioners will devise and perform in a series of short, thrilling interactive experiences that audiences will encounter in the real world.

Site Specific Audio Experiences

Practitioners will write a series of short site-specific audio experiences for different central London locations. They'll then collaborate with a sound designer, members of Punchdrunk's creative team and voice-over performers to bring them to life.
